ONLY
8cm

New to our range for 2023, the Valencia VC104T delivers everything that's popular within the best-selling Series 100 but in a modern and thin (8cm) body providing outstanding comfort and playability for the contemporary player. Its unique cutaway, thin body shape is stunningly attractive, easy to play and delivers excellent tone and volume that surpasses its modest price tag.

The Hybrid Neck version comes with a narrower 45mm nut width to comfortably accommodate the smaller hands of some beginner players. And because it features standard scale length and string tension, it's much easier to play than a standard 3/4 guitar and offers superior sound and comfort.

The Electric Acoustic models feature an under-saddle pickup, and a 3-band Valencia EQ with built-in tuner, ideal for live performance and recording.

A TRIBUTE TO THE ORIGINS OF THE VALENCIA BRAND!

Castanets play a very important role in Flamenco music and dance. Dancers play castanets by resting one pair in each hand with strings looped around the thumb, tapping them together with the fingertips. Rapidly striking the castanet with fingers in sequence produces their distinctive, rhythmic sound.

The tonality of the two castanets is usually different. The bass (low pitch) castanet pair, called "macho" or male, is played in the left hand and maintains the beat. The treble pair, called "hembra" or female, is higher pitched, played in the right hand and provides the more complex rhythms. To distinguish these two types of castanets, the female castanets are marked with a (II) sign on the upper part of the ear.

Valencia Professional Castanets are constructed from Teak to produce a rich, authentic sound for dancers and percussionists of all levels. They are available in a traditional handheld, single sound box configuration with V-shaped ears for greater player comfort, complete with draw-string carry bag.
